

TAYLOR PEDIATRIC
PHYSICAL THERAPY

Concerned about your child's development?

Taylor Pediatric Physical Therapy helps fostering and adoptive families have insight into their child's development, facilitates developmentally appropriate gross motor skills, and aids in accessing next steps to address identified delay or deficits. TPPT provides evaluations, ongoing Physical Therapy services, educational resources, and referrals.

"My child learned skills through TPPT that have enabled her to approach any new activity with confidence and joy."

-- Parent of Client

Do you have concerns about your child's:

- development?
  - Are they hitting age-appropriate developmental milestones (on average, rolling at 3 mo., sitting at 6 mo., crawling at 9 mo., walking at 12 mo.)?
- posture?
  - Do they hold their head turned to one side or tilted? Does the child lean to the side or constantly need support?
- sensory processing?
  - Do they seek sensory input by bumping into things? Do they avoid sensory input or fuss when touching textures? Can they self-soothe and calm?
- possible drug or alcohol exposure in the womb?

If you have one or more of these concerns, your child may benefit from a Physical Therapy evaluation and/or ongoing services.
